Like, prostitution, bigotry and intolerance must be a high profit business—else there wouldn't be so much of it.

I am curious to know which minister is going to bless the organizational meeting of the Citizens Clan next Thursday night.

Forrest County has 12,000 Negroes, all citizens of the United States, but their citizenship expires at 7:30 p.m., next Thursday.

It wouldn't be at all surprising if after the Negroes came the Jews and then the Catholics. The Clans in Alabama have already split over the question of Jews . . . perhaps Mississippi is more progressive by letting them join the holy clan.

Instead of turning toward God or Mecca for our morning prayers, beginning Friday, March 23rd, perhaps we'd do well to turn toward the office of Mr. Dudley Conner.

Frankly, just as soon as I can figure how to make five bucks off the labor of some Negro I think I'll join the Clan, too.

It boils down to this: Mississippi's second class citizens are on the way down another notch or two.

The human brain is unquestionably a wonderful thing . . . too damned bad more people don't have one.

I am so impressed by the Citizens Councils of Mississippi that I am sponsoring a full page advertisement in their behalf in this paper today. Read it and join! (Something new in freedoms.)

The Clans of today are the result of fear, Fear has its roots in many things, the most notable of which is ignorance. Thus well, you can figure it out . . .

Were it within my power to do so, I would not deny the right of organization to the Citizens Clan. They are within their rights to form . . . but they are not within their rights to use economic pressure as a force against those who disagree with them. They are not within their rights to interpret the laws of the United States, or to inject their own views in religion.

I admit readily to a great prejudice . . . but, by the grace of God, I'm prejudiced toward the

Dear P. D.:

Enjoyed your article on Mark Ethridge— another thing that makes him a great man is, the fact that he was a classmate of your wife's father at Meridian High School. However, I doubt if he will attribute his success to that one thing.

As you know, some people are funny along that line.

—M. B. P.

Dear M. B.:

As I stated in the piece about Mr. Ethridge, I hope someday to have the pleasure of meeting him. When I do, I will ask him if he can possibly attribute his success, in part, at any rate, to having gone to school with you.

But seriously, he was kind enough to send me a copy of his complete talk made at the University of Florida, and it is one of the best things I've had the pleasure of reading in a good long time.

It is my plan to run the talk in its entirety just as soon as I have the space to do so. I believe you'll agree that all the honors that have been given to Mark Ethridge were deserved.

Regards,
P. D.

McMullan Elected Director Of MEC

Mr. Dillard McMullan, prominent businessman of Hattiesburg, has been elected a director of the Mississippi Economic Council from Area 18, composed of the counties of Forrest, Lamar, Marion and Walthall, according to J. J. Biglane of Magee, chairman of the MEC's elections committee.

Mr. McMullan will serve a three-year term on the board, taking office on May 1, at the beginning of the Council's 8th year. He succeeds Tom Caldwell of Hattiesburg. Carryover

AN OPEN LETTER TO MEMBERS OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE, JACKSON, MISS.

Gentlemen:

The pictures that accompany this letter were made approximately two months ago. In the picture above you have a view of a dead cow, killed by a motorist on the highway near Hattiesburg one night. Below is a picture of the driver who struck the cow; he, too, is dead.

Gentlemen, as we understand your duties, basically, they are to provide that which is deemed best for the citizens of your state. Dead citizens are not likely to be useful citizens. Too many have died as a result of open range here in South Mississippi. How many more will die before you see fit to pass and enforce, a state-wide stock law?

Going back a quarter of a cen-with livestock on highway 49 north of Gulfport. A few weeks later a man was killed just south of Hattiesburg when his car struck a cow on highway 49.

As a result of those two incidents the Jaycees of Hattiesburg petitioned and had brought to a vote the question of whether citizens of Forrest county favored open range or closed. On the 21st of December of last year the vote was recorded at 5 to 1 favoring closed range. As a result of the vote Forrest County has closed range. But, unfortunately, there is no means to enforce it.

In the meantime people have died because of livestock on the highways.

After the bus accident in which three persons were killed, Harrison County declared illegal livestock roaming along highway 49. Both Forrest and Harrison Counties have put up signs along the highways

Pancake Festival—

Set By Junior Auxiliary Of Hattiesburg For March 21st

The Hattiesburg Junior Auxiliary will sponsor, jointly with the Quaker Oats Co., a Pancake Festival from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Hattiesburg Community Center March 21. Proceeds will be used for a youth recreation program at the Girls' Center on McInnis Ave.

Mrs. Frank Montague, Jr. and Mrs. Joe King, co-chairmen of the Festival, have announced the following committees: Mrs. Dave Matison and Mrs. James D. Bomboy, program and entertainment; Mrs. Dan Ketchum, tickets; Mrs. L. W. McBride and Mrs. Betty Ross, procurement; Mrs. H. W. McMillan, publicity; Mrs. A. J. Jones, banquet chairman; Mrs. Lewis Fowler and Mrs. Frederick Tatum, head chefs and overseers of the dining room.

Aunt Jemima "in person"

Aunt Jemima, trademark of the Quaker Oats Co. and star of radio, stage, screen, and TV, will entertain during the twelve-hour festival, except for necessary rest periods. Continuous entertainment will be supplemented by local amateur and professional performers; such as, Jimmy Swan and his band; Mrs. W. V. Pridgen, accordianist; Steve Blair, Jr., vocalist; Mrs. Maurice McWhorter, pianist; Archie Moore and his trio, impersonators and musicians; and Dave Waite with the Radio Hattiesburg program.

Early morning hours of the festival will cater to the men. The "stag" breakfast will be led by Attorney Jim Finch and Aunt Jemima will appear from 7 to 7:30. A pancake-eating contest will be held sometime during the day, the exact hour to be announced later. Possibly, an afternoon "coffee break" hour will be organized at which time Aunt Jemima's newest pancake sensation—chocolate with ice cream on top—will be served to those who prefer it to the regular fare. A style show is being planned for the ladies be-

J. Ed Turner, Hattiesburg realtor and appraiser, has been named a "Member, Appraisal Institute," of the American Institut eof Real Estate Appraisers. Only 2206 appraisers have qualified for this designation since the founding of the institute in 1932. To receive it, Turner had to be at least 30 years of age, had to have a minimum of five years experience in appraising, had to submit at least three acceptable reports on fee appraisals to be graded, had to pass a minimum of two examinations, and had to be recommended by appraisers familiar with his work. Turner has been engaged in real estate business and appraising in Hattiesburg for the past 23 years, except for a tour of duty with the Army during World War II. He is past president of Mississippi Real Estate Assn., a member of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, the Mortgage Bankers Assn., and the National Assn. of Home Builders.

of which is ignorance. Thus well, you can figure it out . . .

Were it within my power to do so, I would not deny the right of organization to the Citizens Clan. They are within their rights to form . . . but they are not within their rights to use economic pressure as a force against those who disagree with them. They are not within their rights to interpret the laws of the United States, or to inject their own views in religion.

I admit readily to a great prejudice . . . but, by the grace of God, I'm prejudiced toward the practical application and interpretation of the Bill of Rights.

Let's take a brief look at the lack of logic, common sense, if you please, in the Councils and their purpose of having organized. Purpose of the Councils, so they state, is to maintain segregation by lawful means and without violence. That, had it not passed that stage already, would be a good sounding purpose, if not noble. But check this: Any attorney will tell you, or at least several have told me, that segregation can be maintained only one way, and that is on a voluntary basis. Yet, in view of that fact the Councils have formed to "maintain segregation by lawful means." I am unable to believe they are in business for that purpose, considering that purpose has already been made null and void by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is my opinion, in view of their obvious lack of logic, that they are in business to fill the pockets of a few chosen bigots with money; they are in business to spread fear, hate, intolerance and allied forms of stupidity. That which we are witnessing today in the South is nothing more or less than mass insanity. Mobs. And mobs have never done any good. Indeed, were the Councils truly interested in doing anything worthwhile, they would be out to see that the Negro got an even break; they would be out to see that the Negro got equal facilities, fair wages, a fair chance to live and enjoy the privileges afforded by the Bill of Rights. True, I'm prejudiced. And it's going to take some doing to convince me that there is any good in the Citizens Councils.

But, indeed, fear is such a force that anyone suggesting fairness to a Negro, or anyone else whom a mob is against, is likely to incur the rath of the mob. Fear breeds fear, and when it's holding sway, reason and common sense and decency are things forgotten. But who among us is without fear of one sort or another? We all have fears. But some of us fear the loss of human rights, decency, freedom as an American citizen. The loss of those things strike a greater fear in me than the fear of a Negro child attending a white school.

I know, of course, that it's a waste of time and effort to try to reason with a person who is so prejudiced that he has a mental block almost like scar tissue. But I would humbly suggest to anyone who is thinking about buying superiority for a five dollar bill to remember the words of Christ: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." And another thing worth remembering is this: You are what you are but by the grace of God. Real bigots, of course, will never be able to understand that they are White Southerners only by God's grace. They just could have been that Negro whom economic pressure is about to be applied to. That boils down to the Golden Rule, taught every Sunday in church, every day in school, but never remembered by anyone, it seems.

Truth is, it isn't hard to be intolerant . . . just close your mind completely.

A rather interesting story came via the Associated Press last week from Minden, La. Seems Louisiana has a voter registration law like we have here in Mississippi, designed to keep Negroes from registering. A lady named Mrs. Winnice Clement is the registrar in the Parish. After a blast by the Citizens Councils of that area, inent businessman of Hattiesburg, has been elected a director of the Mississippi Economic Council from Area 18, composed of the counties of Forrest, Lamar, Marion and Walthall, according to J. J. Biglane of Magee, chairman of the MEC's elections committee.

Mr. McMullan will serve a three-year term on the board, taking office on May 1, at the beginning of the Council's 8th year. He succeeds Tom Caldwell of Hattiesburg. Carryover directors from the area are J. P. Miles, Lumberton; W. E. Walker, Columbia.

While the new director does not take office until May 1, he and other directors of the area are expected to attend a board meeting in Jackson on April 9th, on the eve of the annual meeting, at which plans for the new program of work of the organization will be announced.

"Mr. McMullan has been named to an important position, representing business and civic interests of this area on the board of directors of the Council," Mr. Biglane said. "We trust citizens of this area will give him their support in carrying out the Council's program to improve the social, civic and economic welfare of the state."

The new director is president of the McMullan Equipment Company, having formed his own company in 1941. He is a native of Smith County, and graduated from the University of Mississippi.

For several years he was connected with the Diamond Match Company. He is a Presbyterian, a Kiwanian, and a member of the board of directors of the Hattiesburg Chamber of Commerce.

He is married to the former Annette Lowe, and they have four children.

Nominations for the various elective offices were made at a meeting held March 1, but for the benefit of those who were not in attendance let it be remembered that nominations are not closed, and there is still the opportunity to nominate others at the March 22 meeting.

Meetings of the Post are now being held in the printing shop of George Hays on Cherry Dr.

Cleaning Bricks

Smoke stains can be removed from fireplace bricks by making a paste of 2 ounces of soda, 1 ounce pumice stone and 1 ounce salt, with water enough to make a thick cream. Spread the paste on the bricks, allow it to remain for about fifteen minutes, then scrub off with a stiff brush. Strains may be removed from a tiled hearth by cleaning with a paste of scouring sand and paraffin; for mere cleaning rub with a cloth which has been dipped in turpentine or vinegar.

the cow, he, too, is dead.

Gentlemen, as we understand your duties, basically, they are to provide that which is deemed best for the citizens of your state. Dead citizens are not likely to be useful citizens. Too many have died as a result of open range here in South Mississippi. How many more will die before you see fit to pass and enforce, a state-wide stock law?

Going back a quarter of a century and reviewing the situation, we would like to point out certain facts which we believe you will give consideration.

It was in 1930 that the State of Mississippi began to expand its highways, building new roads, paving and straightening them. Since the highway program began the State has spent in excess of one hundred million dollars. Anyone will agree that in Mississippi you will find highways comparable to any in the Nation.

Now, in 1930, anyone driving an automobile on the highways was operating at a risky speed if he drove thirty-five or forty miles an hour. If anyone owned an automobile with a horsepower rating of seventy-five he was courting disaster. Also, in 1930, the Indianapolis 500 mile race was won by Billy Arnold at 100.44 mph.

Today, 1955, an average speed can be maintained on our highways at 60 mph without any trouble whatsoever. Today, 1955, few automobiles are manufactured with a horsepower rating of less than 200; in short, Gentlemen, almost any automobile you buy today will make the same speed that Bill Arnold won the Indianapolis race at in 1930.

Everything has shown great progress . . . except the cattle roaming the highways. That situation is unchanged in 10 counties in South Mississippi.

Results have been disasterous.

In July of last year three persons were killed when a bus collided result of the vote Forrest County has closed range. But, unfortunately, there is no means to enforce it.

In the meantime people have died because of livestock on the highways.

After the bus accident in which three persons were killed, Harrison County declared illegal livestock roaming along highway 49. Both Forrest and Harrison Counties have put up signs along the highways stating that livestock are illegal.

But people have contained to be killed by striking cows on the highways.

Drive from Hattiesburg to Gulfport anytime day or night, and you can count upwards to 50 animals on the highway right-of-way. Anyone of which is within killing distance to motorists.

Actually, Gentlemen, it has been shown clearly that the people want closed range. Too, it has been shown clearly that counties have no means of enforcing stock laws, provided they're passed. It would seem, therefore, that the answer lies with you, as Legislative members, to pass a State-Wide Stock Law, and put into it the necessary teeth to make it effective.

We agree, a few of you might lose a few votes four years from now . . . but consider the possibility of saving a human life . . . is there one among you who considers a few votes more valuable than the life of a fellowman?

How many more dead men and dead cows will be photographed before we have adequate laws to protect our citizens on the highways?

Only the members of the State Legislature can answer that question . . . we pray that it be answered when you meet.

Sincerely Yours,
The Petal Paper.

Annual Easter Seal Drive Is Now Open In Forrest County

Heber Ladner, Mississippi's Secretary of State will serve as 1956 Easter Seal Campaign chairman of the Mississippi Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

A native of Pearl River county, Ladner has served as Secretary of State since 1947 and was recently elected president of the National Association of Secretaries of State.

In accepting the position, Ladner said, "I feel honored to accept chairmanship of the Easter Seal Campaign Drive. I can think of no other cause as worthy as helping Mississippi's handicapped children and adults. In our state we have over 125,000 crippled children and adults. These people can be taught to lead normal, useful lives. Our donations during the Easter Seal Campaign will give them the chance."

HEBER LADNER

The annual Easter Seal drive began on March 10. Contributions for the 1956 Easter Seal Drive will be used in Mississippi to support rehabilitation centers offering speech and physical therapy to handicapped boys, girls, and adults.

Donations will also provide summer camps and clinics for children with polio, cerebral palsy, for children with trauma, cleft palates, for children who stutter or lisp, and for chidren with many other physical handicaps. Contributions buy braces, corrective shoes and wakers.

Over 90 per cent of the money donated to the Mississippi Easter Sea Drive stays within the state.

charging that Mrs. Clement was too lax in enforcing the law, she tightened up. Now, it seems not many whites are able to vote, either. Mississippi has such a law, passed last year, but no one in this state has yet had the courage or integrity to apply it to all persons, regardless of race, color, or creed. In an editorial almost a year ago in this paper, I pointed out the possibilities of such a law, the point to which it could be carried, provided someone cared to do so. And, believe me, if the Clans keep up their present acts, someone is going to care to do so . . . to be specific, unless you belong to a Clan you may see the day when you will be unable to vote.

Actually, if I were a Jew or a Catholic in Mississippi today I'd be scared stiff. And if I were a Negro I'd already have been gone.

These times try more than just the souls of men . . . integrity intelligence, humility, compassion, virtue, principle, and wisdom are being tried. Yes, in one sense, even God is on trial at the present time.

Veterans Rally Termed Success

By JOHN L. COOPER

Veterans who did not attend the rally sponsored by East Forrest Memorial Post No. 6040, V. F. W., last Friday night, March 9, at the Community Center will never know how much real information they missed out on. Seldom, if ever, does a small community have the privilege of hearing so many top authorities on any subject at one time. A state officer of the V. F. W., who was also present, remarked that he could not remember ever having known of such an array of talent appearing on the same program.

Even though the turn-out was not nearly as good as it should have been a number of different places in this area were represented. Veterans from Harvey, Dixie Pine, Purvis, Baxterville, Columbia and Laurel were on hand in addition to a good representation from the local Post.

The meeting heard short talks by the following: Toxie Stapleton, Dept. Service Officer of the V. F. W.; L. O. Cherbonnier of the Loan Guaranty Division of the V. A. Center in Jackson; Robert DeKay, Commissioner of the State Veterans Affairs Commission, and two of his assistant Commissioners, Henry Williams and James Stevens; Jeff Williams, Dept. Commander V. F. W.; and Delos Burks, Dept. Adj.-Quartermaster. Questions were invited of any veteran present, and not a single question went unanswered.

Perhaps the most significant and benefits for veterans and especially those of World War II. Another important point stressed was the need for early filing of any claims against the V. A. It was repeatedly stated that claims that are granted take effect from the date of filing and are not retroactive to any prior date despite a long existing liability of the government.

The local V. F. W. Post sincerely hopes that its efforts to bring these authorities here has been of benefit

Fire Destroys 234 Acres Of Hancock Timber

Burning of timberlands in Hancock County by arsonists is continuing, according to Marion Parker, area forester, who disclosed that 234 acres were burned during the week ending Monday, Feb. 27.

Fires which sprang up Tuesday destroyed 229 acres between Leetown and Necaise Crossing and along the Kiln road near the town of Kiln, Parker reported.

The fires bore evidence of being set, Parker said.

Constant surveillance of the area is being maintained by district, area and state men of the Forestry commission but so far no arrests have been made.

More than 10,000 acres of valuable timber land were destroyed this winter in Hancock county by fires set by arsonists.

The Department of Interior was created in 1849 as the Home Department.

ALONG THE R. F. D.

By Rose Budd Stevens

To me there is nothing sadder in the home, yea in the whole world, than two people living together who truly love each other and never let the words pass their lips. Alas, and again alas men and women excuse themselves and their actions with, "Well, she, or he should know I love her or him, because I bring home my pay check, or keep the house and children sparkling slean."

Pshaw, and double pshaw . . . how many hearts are hungry this very minute longing to hear the words, "I love you," spoken softly and quietly. Perhaps many of us don't merit the love of our husbands. Perhaps we skimp on the affection we show him . . . but if two people who live together and love each other, would only speak out, the ills of the world would be soothed and smoothed a thousandfold.

I get letters, and often, from women who complain that their husbands do nothing to merit the affection I urge them to show the man they choose to marry. One woman writes, "My husband can look like a dream when he gets ready to go to town. Around the house he never shaves and wonders why I avoid his few kisses. Have you ever been kissed by a briar patch? He isn't tidy and will wear the same work clothes for weeks if I don't take them during the night and dunk them in water . . . he smokes all the time and I actually get sick on the stomach when he tries to kiss me, beard, dirty clothes and tobacco breath.

He can't be changed . . . nor does he want to change. I have talked with his mother and she only laughs at me and calls me silly, says she put up with his father that way. Why, why can't he show his family the attractive side as well as the people in town once a week when he dresses up in his best and goes into town for a meeting and lunch with the boys at a civic club?"

I have no answer: the little poem below seems to answer something and perhaps women the world over are seeking too much, love and the telling of it, a good living and companionship.

"If, my dear, you seek to slumber,
Count of stars an endless number;
If you still continue wakeful,
Count the drops that make a lakeful;
Then, if vigilance yet above
you
Hover, count the time I love
you;
And if slumber still repel you,
Count the times I do not tell
you.
—Franklin Peace Adams.

In a few weeks you will be getting Easter Seals in the mail. Many lines of copy will be printed about the Easter Seal drive. It is not the intention of the Society to overlook any person in the State. If you do not receive your seals in the mail, let that make no difference, give and give again for the money is for a wonderful cause. Your donations will help to buy corrective shoes, walkers and braces for some 15,000 children with orthopedic conditions here in the state of Mississippi. The money from Easter Seals will help thousands of othe rchildren and adults who stood because of speech impediments cannot make themselves understood.

There are at the present time 69,000 children in Mississippi who lisp, stutter, have cleft palates and other speech problems. Your donations to the Mississippi Society for Crippled Children and Adults will give Mississippi's amputees a chance to learn a trade. Four thousand adults and 1,500 children in Mississippi have lost an arm, leg or both.

Not being willing to take the word of someone else I went to Jackson to visit a clinic there. I wanted to see with my own eyes what was being done. I came away strongly convinced that the work they were doing was wonderful. One cute little boy of four had a decided speech impediment . . . that would have never corrected itself.

Sure, he sounds cute now when he says, "De tar wan off de woad." But think of his future. With help and still more help in the coming years he will be able to say, "The car ran off the road." He has to be taught to use the correct muscles in his tongue and throat that come natural to most of us who are more fortunate.

I saw deaf children working arithmetic problems, reading and playing games . . . children who were happy and laughing because your dollars provide a teacher for them, a place to have the school and above all these children are getting a chance in life that is the right of every American child. Won't you return your Easter Seal envelope with a check or cash, or even a money order. Remember, it could have been your child who needed help.

Kite flying time! Remember when you were small and March with its winds came, puffing and blowing. Your thoughts turned from marbles to kites and then the fun began.

Bought kites were unheard of in our part of the country, and even though many of the kites were never air-flown the thrill of cutting, pasting and decorating with colored papers was a joy never to be forgotten.

All during the year mama saved every piece of string she got her hands on, and on the top shelf of the guest room closet was always a steady growing ball of cord. When mama ripped the feed sacks, flour sacks and in the spring fertilizer sacks, she saved all the tring and wound it on neat little pieces of folded paper. Some day when we would be out of sorts, mama would bring out the cracked crock where she kept these little bundles of string and say, "Wouldn't you children like to tie all these pieces of string together and then wind them on the big ball in the closet."

Of course, we at once forgot to be out of sorts and took our play over by the window in the kitchen and tied and wrapped for and hour or so. Blue string from the bought meat we had so seldom; red from the packages that came from our aunt in Baton Rocge; grey string from the fertilizer sacks; snow white ones from the flour sacks, and pink string from the medicine packages that came from the drugstore owned by Mr. Bill Webb over in Gloster.

Each little bundle of string was talked about and suddenly the morning was gone and a fretful or cross little girl or boy had spent the whole time in happy play. Every day of my life it is more and more brought to my attention, "It takes so little to make a child happy."

Cedar week sticks were used for the frame work of our kites, and the pains we took with them. Mama always had sheet sof Sears wrapping paper put away in the pantry for us to use for our kites. She could always find strips of worn out sheets for the tails and we tied them together with jaunty bows, that looked chipper when flying over the west field. We had no wires to snare our kites but we did have to be careful to pull at the right time to keep the kites from falling into the trees around the place.

Many is the night we staked our kites out, when dark found us with one almost out of sight and the wind just right. A stob was driven into the ground and the kite was put on a tether for Center in Jackson; Robert DeKay, Commissioner of the State Veterans Affairs Commission, and two of his assistant Commissioners, Henry Williams and James Stevens; Jeff Williams, Dept. Commander V. F. W.; and Delos Burks, Dept. Adj.-Quartermaster. Questions were invited of any veteran present, and not a single question went unanswered.

Perhaps the most significant one thing called to the attention of the veterans by every speaker is the increasing difficulty of securing rightful compensations and benefits for veterans and especially those of World War II. Another important point stressed was the need for early filing of any claims against the V. A. It was repeatedly stated that claims that are granted take effect from the date of filing and are not retroactive to any prior date despite a long existing liability of the government.

The local V. F. W. Post sincerely hopes that its efforts to bring these authorities here has been of benefit to some, if not all, who were in attendance, and hopes, too, to be able to put on a real big veterans rally again before too long.

Home Agent's Notes

Home Demonstration Agent

By Elsie H. Butler

4-H Club girls throughout Mississippi are taking part in a new demonstration this year—on the use of corn meal. They have recently been presenting their demonstrations at district meetings and showing how to use corn meal in tasty and nutritious dishes suitable for breakfast dinner, supper and between-meal snacks.

Marcia Grantham, 4-H Club Girl of East Forrest High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Grantham was district winner in the demonstration on the use of corn meal in home cooking. She will compete in the state contest for $150.00 Scholarship. This contest will be held at State Club Congress, June 13.

Here is one of the recipe that is being used—and one that the 4-H girl who presented it in her demonstration said never failed. She has made cookies by the recipe many times. The cookies retain their crisp, crunchiest in storage.

Corn Meal Cookies

3 cups flor, sifted
1 cup corn meal
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1½ teaspoon salt
½ cup raisins

Cream shortening well. Add sifted and measured sugar and beat until creamy. Add eggs and beat until light and fluffy, then add lemon extract and blend. Sift flour and measure. Combine all dyr ingredients and sift into creamed mixture. Add raisins. Roll into balls the size of a walnut. Place on a greased cookie sheet.

Dip bottom of small glass into cornmeal and flatten tops. Bake 0 to 12 minutes in 400 degree F. oven until edges are golden brown.

New, Clean Paint Brush

Bright, warm spring-like days bring on the urge to get the garden planted, to work in the flower beds and to refinish home and furniture with clean new colors.

If painting is one of the jobs you plan, here's an idea for preparing a new paint brush.

You know a new paint brush almost always has a few loose hairs. These should be removed before yo uuse it. The best way to do this is to rub the bristles back and forth across the hand to remove both dust and loose hairs.

Then wash the new brush in a cleaning fluid and you will start the job not only with a new brush but an entirely clean one.

Serve Foods Artistically

You hear a lot about serving nutritious foods to your family. And every homemaker has to consider the economy of foods to keep in her food budget.

But don't let your only considerations be for a meal that is only nutritious, economical and good to eat. It must have eye

TO STREAMLINER

Sending money in stagecoach days was more picturesque than practical. Indians and bandits were constant threats to safe delivery.

Today air mail service and coast-to-coast railroad "streamliners" have replaced pony express and stagecoach. And checks have replaced cash in over 90% of all financial transactions.

Soviets "Discover" Parents Owe Children Education About Sex

By CHARLES KLENSCH

Moscow school principal Tatyana Panfilova says Soviet parents must face up to the job of explaining the facts of life to their offspring.

"It is best," she adds, "if the father talks to the son and the mother to the daughter."

"Sex" isn't mentioned in polite Soviet society. Lots of books which haven't been banned in Boston would be considered too racy by Communist blue stockings.

Mrs. Panfilova's article on love and marriage in the current issue of "Working Woman" (Rabontnitsa) is one of the rare ventures which the Soviet press has made into this field.

She indicates that authorities are beginning to worry about a situation in which too many Russian teen-agers are getting only a back-fence education on these hush-hush topics.

The Communists aren't concerned merely with personal happiness. A hasty marriage may 'Do a great deal of harm to society, as well as deforming individual lives."

As the "primary cell of (Communist) society," the Soviet family has a "duty" to bring up hard-working, patriotic citizens.

The school principal reminds parents they are also charged with raising youngsters who will in turn become good mothers and fathers.

Obstacles Exist

But a substantial divorce rate, recent legalization of abortions and subsidies for unwed mothers indicate that more heart-to-heart talks are in order around the family samovar.

Mrs. Panfilova stresses the importance of parents setting a good example for their children in the home.

She scolds parents who quarrel and "tell smutty stories and vulgar anecdotes" in front of the children. Such an atmosphere may "dim a teen-ager's dream of love as something great, true and beautiful."

Disenchantment in turn may lead to a quest for "easy victories and entertainments."

When the youngsters grow up to the point where they have already "begun to understand a number of things," it's time for frank talks "about love and companionship in marriage and about the significance of family life in our society."

Mrs. Ranfilova warns that "a certain amount of tact" will be required. Lecturing, she says will cause teenagers to "draw into themselves and you won't get anywhere."

She also cautions that "great restraint and sensitivity" will be necessary in discussing "intimate relations." But, she says, "youth wants to know" and the job must not be shirked.

Attitudes Warped

Parents should also keep in touch with their children's attitudes toward life. Mrs. Panfilova reported that the father of 16-year-old Victor was shocked when his son stood up for a TV drama villain who married the boss' daughter to get ahead.

When the father countered that a Soviet marriage should be based on love and companionship, not on career possibilities, Victor dismissed the old man's ideas as "sentimental" and "old fashioned."

The author reports that "a young man from the same sporting society had strongly influenced Victor and his comrades. Under his influence, a non-friendly attitude toward girls and incorrect views on love and marriage began to appear."

Mrs. Panfilova suggests:

"If parents find it impossible to shield youngsters from evil influences, they must under no circumstances ignore the matter and permit the children to form their own judgments on these questions.

"It is necessary to explain the incorrectness and unworthiness of such behavior and teach your children to reject it."

The first Prohibition law in the U.S. was involked in Kansas in 1880.

Serve Foods Artistically

You hear a lot about serving nutritious foods to your family. And every homemaker has to consider the economy of foods to keep in her food budget.

But don't let your only considerations be for a meal that is only nutritious, economical and good to eat. It must have eye appeal as well as taste appeal.

Choose foods that contrast in color, size and shape. Serve crisp and soft foods at the same time. Be sure that hot foods are served hot and cold foods served cold.

Prune Flowering Shrubs

Crepe myrtle, vitex, butterfly bush, althea and anthony waterer spirea should be pruned now. They will still flower this summer if you prune and shape them at this season. Any spring-flowering shrubs may be cut back and shaped just as soon as the flower fade.

Broadleaf and narrowleaf evergreens may be pruned during March. Use orchard pruners or hand pruners to cut back evergreens. Leave plants as natural looking as possible.

Let's keep it that way!

IT'S A FINE THING to have the "welcome mat" out for a new factory on opening day. But it's not enough! A community's long-range industrial growth and prosperity depend on sincere and continuing hospitality to industry, long after the welcoming committee has gone home. This is a job for all of us in the South today.

The steady, year-by-year expansion of existing industry is impressive proof that the job is being done. Southern industries are getting an honest day's work for a fair day's pay . . . understanding acceptance of technological progress, which ultimately creates still more jobs . . . honest, stable, friendly state and local government and fair tax treatment . . . efficient. dependable rail service.

With all of us doing all we can to welcome new industries to the South and to keep them happy in their new home, the Southland will continue to grow and prosper. And all in the South will benefit!

Personnel Change Is Announced By Southern Bell Co.

Two important changes in the Headquarters Executive Personnel of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company were announced by President Fred J. Turner, following a meeting of the board of directors.

John G. Bradbury, vice president of operations since January 1, 1943, was elected executive Vice President. In this position he will assist President Turner in the overall operations of the business.

Ben S. Gilmer, formerly of Southern Bell but more recently Vice President of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, was elected Vice President and a director. Mr. Gilmer, who served with Southern Bell for 26 years of his 30-year telephone career, will succeed Mr. Bradbury as vice president of operations. The changes are effective March 15.

A native of middle Tennessee, Mr. Bradbury has risen through telephone ranks to positions of increasing responsibility. After attending Peabody College in Nashville he joined Southern Bell there in 1911. He held several important positions in Tennessee before being transferred to Atlanta in 1925 for assignment in the Engineering Department. Later he served successively as Tennessee Division Plant Engineer, Carolina Division Plant Engineer, Carolina Construction Superintendent and Charlotte District Plant Manager.

In 1934, he returned to Atlanta as General Plant Engineer and in 1935 was appointed Florida Plant Superintendent. Three years later he was elevated to General Plant Manager, with company-wide responsibility, and in 1943, was elected vice-president and appointed in charge of operations in the nine-state area served by Southern Bell.

Long identified with public spirited undertakings in Atlanta, Mr. Bradbury has been particularly active in the leadership of the Community Chest and the Red Cross. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church. He also holds memberships in the Chamber of Commerce, the Civitan Club, and the Capital City Club and Peachtree Golf Club.

Mr. Gilmer, who is vice president of the Pacific Company, in charge of California operations, was Southern Bell General Commercial Manager with headquarters in Atlanta when he was elected a vice president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company in 1952. He directed

Southern Farm Modernization Lags Behind North And West

Southern farmers have a good bit of catching up with the northern Jonses yet to do, despite the rapid clip at which Dixie farms have been modernized in recent years.

The U. S. Commerce Department, in an analysis of the last census of agriculture, reported today that the South is lagging behind the North and the West in farm mechanization and facilities.

For instance, the government agency said, 26.2 per cent of Dixie farms had telephones, as compared with 70.6 per cent in the North and 67.1 in the West.

Although 90.4 per cent of southern farms had electricity by the recent census, 95.7 per cent of those in the North and 94.4 per cent of those in the West had this facility.

Slightly more than one-fourth of all Southern farms had television, but the figure ran to 46.8 per cent in the North and 37.8 per cent in the West.

And Southerhers were still hauling their water home in buckets to a greater extent than farmers elsewhere. Piped running water was in 45.8 per cent of southern farm homes, as compared with 67.7 per cent of Nothern farm houses and 86.2 per cent of those in the West.

The census placed the value of land and buildings on Southern farms at $11,929 per farm. In the North the figure was $23,655 and in the West $41,455.

Tractors were found on 39.6 per cent of the South's farms, on 81.4 per cent of those in the North and on 70.3 per cent of those in the West. The South also ran third in the comparison in the number of trucks and automobiles on farms.

Between agricultural census-taking, the amount of land in farms in the South declined by 1.7 per cent and by 1.5 per cent in the North, but increased by four per cent in the West.

Book Of Verse To Be Released By Dr. Lowrey

Stones and The Sea, a book of verse written by Dr. R. G. Lowrey, professor of English at Mississippi Southern College, is slated to go on sale over the nation on June 1.

Published by the New Orleans Poetry Journal and printed by Villiers Publications of London, England, the book features the 900-line title poem and contains other verse written by Dr. Lowrey over the past decade.

Nearly $50,000 Back Wages Paid By State Firms

Figures released here today reveal that 80 Mississippi employers agreed to pay back wages totaling $49,271 to 683 employees in order to correct underpayments found during Wage-Hour investigations made in the 8-months' period just ended.

Homer E. Krog, Regional Director of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, made the information available. He said the principal cause of the payments was failure to comply with the overtime provisions of the Federal Wage and Hour Law which applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce and in the production of goods for commerce.

Total payments of this type for the Southeastern region of the Wage and Hour Division were $467,284, made by 777 employers to 5,577 employees. States in the region are South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

The new $1 minimum wage in effect since March 1, may cause back wage payments to rise rapidly, according to Krog. He said there was an increase of 35 percent of Mississippi Employees due money for minimum rate violations in the first full fiscal year after the 1950 increase from 40 to 75 cents. Payments due workers here jumped $58,785 in the same period.

"As we have found most violations are caused by misunderstanding or honest misapplication of the law's requirements", he stated "we have gone to great lengths to furnish the public with complete information on the new dollar minimum."

"Investigators and other officials have met with civic and business clubs to discuss coverage and exemption problems. Virtually all covered employers have been furnished with Wage-Hour posters which tell about the new rate and the law's general provisions."

Another step takn to promote compliance with the new minimum is the increase in Mississippi investigators from 7 to 11, law can be secured from the Jackson field office, 145 E. Amite Street.

Merck & Co. Introduce New Feed Supplement

The first combination of penicillin and streptomycin for use as a high level feed supplement to treat certain poultry, turkey and swine diseases was offered today to feed manufacturers by Merck & Co., Inc., Chemical Division.

The new product, called Pro-Strep, which is a registered trade mark of Merck & Co., Inc., is a mixture of procaine penicillin G and streptomycin sulfate in a carrier of corn distillers dried grains. It is reported that the combined effects from the combination of these two well known antibiotics renders the supplement particularly effective not only in reducing poultry and swine loss from disease, but also in promoting growth in hogs and chickens.

Pro-Strep is recommended for reducing and hastening recovery from chronic respiratory disease (CRD), and for the treatment of non-specific enteritis of chickens, and blue comb in turkeys, as well as for the maintenance of feed intake and weight gains during these diseases. Pro-Strep is also suggested for promotion of growth, improved feed efficiency, and maintenance of egg production and quality under adverse conditions of weather and environment.

In addition, the combination is reported to be indicated for the prevention and treatment of infectious swine enteritis (commonly called "necro"), as well as for the stimulation of growth, improved feed efficiency, increased feed intake and better uniformity of weight gains in pigs.

The new mixture is available to feed manufacturers in 50-pound multi-wall bags. Five pounds of Pro-Strep added to each ton of feed yields a high level of feed supplementation amounting to 100 grams of total antibiotics per ton of feed.

Q. Is NICARBAZIN consistently effective against coccidiosis mortality?

A. Yes. Reports from every broiler area show that NICARBAZIN provides the most effective curb against coccidiosis death loss. In one area, for example, growers reported no coxy death loss in 174,542 birds protected with NICARBAZIN. With these same growers, mortality ran as high as 12 per cent in 48,500 birds on another coccidiostat.

Q. How does NICARBAZIN compare with other coccidiostats in its effect on market weight?

A. In recent comparative feeding trials, NICARBAZIN-protected birds averaged 0.19 lb. more than birds on another coccidiostat. This extra weight per bird gave growers 10,564 lbs. added market weight for the 55,600 birds on NICARBAZIN feeds.

Q. What other benefits may I expect after NICARBAZIN removes the coccidiosis problem?

A. Your birds should show a gain in feed efficiency. In addition, they will weigh more, dress out heavier, and show a better skin color. These benefits mean you'll cut production costs and command better prices for your birds. It all adds up to greater poultry profits for you.

Q. Is there a reduction in overall mortality, as well as coccidiosis mortality, when NICARBAZIN is used in feeds?

A. Several poultry diseases are caused by secondary infections which may develop in birds already weakened by such conditions as coccidiosis. Because NICARBAZIN can practically eliminate coxy damage, birds are better able to resist secondary infections.
